

Erica Lowe

Class of 2006

After graduating from TMA in 2006, Erica earned her degree from the UCF in Interdisciplinary Studies which was focused in science education. While in college, she was involved with a campus ministry called Cru. God used a Cru summer missions project to South Africa to call Erica into Christian missions work. She returned to South Africa to do campus ministry for one year after graduating from UCF in 2010.

The internship year confirmed her call to join the JESUS Film Project, a ministry under Cru. Currently, Erica serves as a recording technician on the JESUS Film Travel Team which records languages around the world. She works with voice actors to dub the film into many languages so that every person in the world will have the Gospel on film in their heart language. By the end of this year, Erica will have recorded at least four languages, all of which are mostly spoken in East Africa.

Erica is grateful to TMA for playing a significant role in her life as a middle and high school student. She says, "The Christian education I received shaped and strengthened my desire for the Lord and my longing to live a Christ-centered life. Much credit goes to the teachers that challenged and influenced me in my relationship with Jesus as they selflessly invested in me - not only in my education, but in the person God has called me to be!"
